The old-time songs sung, "How tedious and tasteless the hours" etc., and "on Jordan's stormy banks" as rendered in the Methodist church last Sunday morning showed that congregational singing is not a lost art when the congregations are given a show. FAIRVIEW.
The hum of the binder is heard on every farm in this community this week, but few will get through for the Fourth of July as much of the wheat is lodged and can be cut but one way, though down yet the crop is exceptionally good.

A grand social was given at the home of Rev. Oney last Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. Oney's niece and their son Mr. Elbert Oney, of Washington. All the best blood of the community was there in its finest fabrics, and all report a most pleasant time.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Hepper returned last week from an extended visit to friends and relatives near Indianapolis, Ind. They say no place like "Old Shenandoah."

Mr. C. M. Coffelt spent the first of the week at Bowman's.
The meeting at Fairview closed with many additions. We were sorry to see the good work close. Mr. Doffee is a fluent speaker.

Mr. Elbert Oney gave an excellent talk to the young people explaining the work of the Y. M. C. A. in foreign fields, which we all very heartily endorsed.

THROUGH OHIO AND INDIANA.
Lynchburg, Va., June 26, '10.
Editor Shen. HERALD,
Woodstock, Va.
DEAR EDITOR:—Thinking that a few lines from an old Shenandoah boy might be of interest to some of the readers of the HERALD I will give you a brief description of a trip through parts of Ohio and Indiana.

I left Lynchburg, Va., on the last day of May and made the trip to Columbus without incident and after spending about two hours there I took a Hocking Valley train for Marion and noticed that the crops were about the same through that section as here in Virginia.

Corn is very backward and wheat was rather short and grass was the same way but after leaving Marion over the Erie I passed through an oil country and saw lots of oil wells going and was then in the neighborhood of Kenton I saw lots of well working and was then told that some farmers raised as much as 300 dollars worth of oil on their farms.

Stopped at Rockford Ohio two days and while there I drove to Van Wert in Van Wert Co. and saw the prettiest fields of clover that I have ever seen and corn looked better there than in any part of the State which I passed through.

I then went to Dayton and visited my uncle, Wm. P. Stultz and while there met with Mr. Mike Wine and wife, of Quicksburg, Va. I also took a trip up to Union and took dinner with Mr. Geo. B. Sponagle and his mother who just moved to Union from Woodstock last February.

Spent a few hours with Mr. Gilber and family and took supper with Mr. Frank Smoot another of Shenandoah's boys who has met with success in Ohio, then I took dinner one day with Mr. Wm. (Billie) Whetzel, and while in Dayton called on Mrs. Frederick Betz.

Left Dayton over the Big 4 Route to Cincinnati and then over the B. & O. S. W. and Monon to Salem, Ind., where I spent a week amongst some friends and relatives. Crops in that section are just about the same as here but was down at Norfolk last week and found that corn in the East Va. is far ahead of any seen any place in the west. Peanuts too are showing up rather nice now in that section.

Fearing that I may tire you I will close.
KIRBY O. STULTZ,
An old Shenandoah boy.

Indestructible Horse Collars.
The advent of the indestructible horse collars has proved one of the greatest blessings to horses and to horse owners. Among their greatest merits are that they heal old sores and prevent new ones. They are adjustable and a perfect fit can always be secured. They require no hames, they last for years. They are now used by the United States Army and by contractors building the Panama canal. Hundreds of testimonials from farmers who have used them from the best and cheapest team collar ever used. They will certainly prove a great blessing to horses, for nothing is more aggravating to both horse and driver than sore shoulders.

You'll find that it's poor policy to shop around in buying clothes:
to go where you see the lowest price quoted. Price doesn't mean much in clothes unless you know what the quality of the goods is.

If you govern your buying by the price you pay, without reference to what you get for it, you'll find some mighty cheap clothes for sale; their cheapness is likely to be more in quality than in price. But you'll find plenty of good clothes, too.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx
